What is Rosh Hashanah?

Rosh Hashanah is the Jewish New Year. It is also known as 'the head of the year'. It is a two day celebration which falls between the 5th September and 5th October.

The Meaning of Rosh Hashanah

Jews celebrate their belief in God's creation of the first man and woman. They were called Adam and Eve.

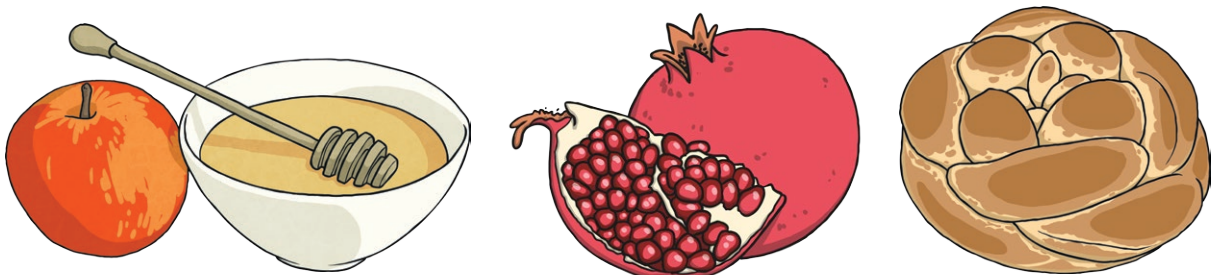

At this time, people think about the past year and the next year. Jewish people believe that God will judge them on the good and bad things they have done. They ask God for forgiveness and to have a fresh start.

Traditions

During Rosh Hashanah, Jewish people spend a lot of time at the synagogues. This is where they ask God for forgiveness. At the synagogue, a ram's horn known as a shofar can be heard.

After the synagogue service, there is a special feast. Foods eaten include:

- apples dipped in honey as a symbol of a sweet new year.
- challah bread in a round loaf representing the circle of life.
- a pomegranate because it is believed they have 613 seeds one for each of the Jewish commandments.

Rosh Hashanah

What is Rosh Hashanah?

Rosh Hashanah is the Jewish New Year festival which lasts for two days. It is also referred to as 'the head of the year'. The celebration dates vary each year but always fall between 5th September and 5th October.

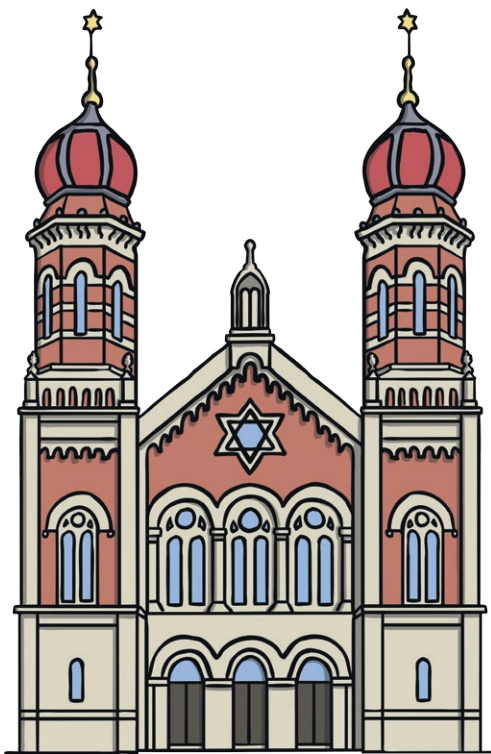

The Meaning of Rosh Hashanah

Rosh Hashanah is a time when Jews commemorate their belief in God's creation of the earth and the first man and woman. Their names were Adam and Eve.

It is a time for reflection, considering the past year and the next year. Jewish people believe that God will judge them on the good and bad deeds they have done. They ask God for forgiveness which then allows them to become a better person and begin the new year without any burdens.

During Rosh Hashanah

During Rosh Hashanah, Jewish people spend the majority of time at the synagogue, praying for forgiveness and reflecting on their lives.

The sound of the Shofar – a ram's horn – can be heard as it is blown as part of the festival rituals during the service. One hundred notes are blown each day of the festival.

After the synagogue service there is a special feast. Foods eaten include:

Rosh Hashanah

- apples dipped in honey as a symbol of a sweet new year which each Jewish person hopes for.
- challah bread in a round loaf representing the circle of life and of the year.
- a pomegranate because it is believed they have 613 seeds, one for each of the Jewish commandments that a person try to should keep.
